Conversations on a Homecoming

by Tom Murphy

Conversations On A Homecoming is one of the best plays of the last half-century written by Tom Murphy. Set in a Galway pub, newly modernised by its returned Yankee owner, it explores the Americanisation of Ireland in the post-Kennedy era. Over a long drinking session a group of friends gather together after an absence of ten years. Faced with the changes the years have wrought, the four male and three female characters begin a long process of self-discovery.

Directed by Padraic McIntyre, Livin' Dred have undertaken this production in association with NOMAD, a group of eight north-midland theatres whose directors have come together to produce and promote top quality theatre and performances in the region.
